

This authentic stainless steel Diner was built by the Jerry O'Mahony Diner Company of Elizabeth, New Jersey in 1951. It was first operated as Steve's Diner, then later the Sunrise Diner in Jim Thorpe, Pennsylvania. The Diner was purchased by the Liberty Aviation Museum, lovingly restored, and moved to its current location in 2012.

The Tin Goose Diner is a fully functional museum artifact serving as one of our operational exhibits. It serves as a living breathing example of a bygone era where locals gathered in a friendly setting to discuss family and friends, sports, and current events over a hearty meal or just a cup of coffee.

The Liberty Aviation Museum/Tin Goose Diner is a 501 C3 not for profit organization. Each time you have a cup of coffee or have a meal at the Diner, 100% of the profits go towards supporting the Museum, its daily operations, exhibits and restorations.

We thank you for your patronage and help to preserve and perpetuate our rich local, state, and national history.
